INTRODUCTION

This fourth edition of Study Abroad, International Handbook of Fellowships, Scholarships and Educational Exchange contains information on international educational and training programmes for 1951-2, 1952-3 and 1953-4. The volume is subdivided into three parts: (I) commentaries on fellowship programmes; (II) the list of fellowships and scholarships offered in 1951-2; and (III) a report contributed by the ILO on opportunities for young workers and students to receive vocational and technical training abroad.

Part I. "The Statistical Commentary on Volume III of Study Abroad" gives a concise picture of international fellowship programmes according to: (a) subjects of study for which the scholarships are awarded; (b) countries in which the recipients may carry out their studies; (c) nationality of persons eligible for the scholarships reported; and (d) the countries which award the scholarships. In referring to the tables, it should be borne in mind that they refer to fellowships and scholarships as reported in Volume III of Study Abroad and do not, therefore, represent the final picture. For example, many awards are offered without restriction as to nationality of recipients, subjects of study or countries of study. Donor agencies were requested in 1951 to report to Unesco the actual distribution of scholarships awarded in 1950-1. Replies so far received show, for example, the nationalities of the recipients of 1,284 out of the 7,591 scholarships which were offered in competition to nationals of all countries. It is hoped that complete information on this subject will be received for publication in a further document on fellowship statistics.

The report on "International Fellowships and Training Programme of the United Nations and its Specialized Agencies" supplements the information given in Part II on the fellowships offered by the United Nations, FAO, International Bank, ICAO, ILO, Unicef, Unesco and WHO. In view of the specific interest of these fellowship programmes in relation to the broader activities of the United Nations and its Specialized Agencies, particularly since the inception of the Expanded Programme of Technical Assistance, these programmes have been described in some detail.

Part II. "The List of International Fellowships and Scholarships Available" gives details of awards offered by governments and private institutions in 60 countries and in non-self-governing and trust territories. States whose scholarship programmes are included in Study Abroad for the first time are: Bolivia, Greece, Monaco, Nicaragua, the Saar and Yugoslavia. As in previous editions, footnotes indicate the probable availability of the awards in 1952-3 and 1953-4.

The main increase in the number of fellowships offered in 1951-2 is in the programmes of the United Nations and its Specialized Agencies, an increase made possible by the allocation of funds under the Expanded Programme of Technical Assistance. A further increase in the number of educational and training opportunities offered to persons from under-developed countries is due to the participation of a number of governments in the Colombo Plan for Technical Co-operation in South and South East Asia.

Under the major new programmes reported for 1951-2, the emphasis is on technical training. This will benefit the countries from which candidates are selected, by equipping them with personnel qualified to work on the many projects for social and economic development planned either independently by governments or in co-operation with the United Nations and its Specialized Agencies.

Part III. The International Labour Office has again contributed to this volume a report on programmes for the international exchange of trainees. As mentioned in the introduction to Part III, various factors point to increased interest on the part of governmental and non-governmental agencies in promoting and expanding these programmes which offer opportunities to young people to take temporary employment abroad in order to improve their skill in their occupations and to learn the language of the country visited. ILO and Unesco are continuing their co-operation in promoting trainee exchanges. It is hoped that the interest stimulated in countries which do not already participate in programmes of this kind will lead to the adoption of measures to encourage the international movement of trainees.

PART I

STATISTICAL COMMENTARY ON VOLUME III, STUDY ABROAD

During the last three years Unesco has collected, for publication in Study Abroad, an ever increasing amount of data on international fellowship programmes, as can be seen from the following figures: Volume I, containing information for the year 1948-9, reported 15,070 awards. Volume II, containing information for the year 1949-50, reported 24,203 awards. Volume III, containing information for the year 1950-1, reported 35,459 awards.

This increase is distributed throughout all geographical areas, with only one notable exception,¹ as shown in the following table:

Region	Fellowships reported in
	Vol. I	Vol. II	Vol. III
North America	3,223	6,880	13,271
Latin America	15	550	1,259
Europe	6,486	7,987	10,967
Near and Middle East	3,377	3,919	4,811
South and East Asia	768	1,070	444
Africa	66	97	125
Oceania	151	170	163
Dependencies and Terr.	—	603	755
International	984	2,927	3,664
Totals:	15,070	24,203	35,459

These comparative figures do not, however, reflect the real increase in the number of new fellowships offered each year. Several factors contribute to the increase, namely, expanded technical assistance schemes of the United Nations and Specialized Agencies; new governmental programmes such as the "Point 4" programme of the U.S.A.; additional fellowships awarded under programmes reported in previous volumes of Study Abroad; and inclusion of reports from agencies which already awarded fellowships in 1948 but which were not reported in the earlier volumes of Study Abroad.

The information on international fellowships available in 1950-1 has been classified into three principal groups: fields of study, countries of study, and beneficiaries. Particulars concerning each of these groups are discussed below.

FIELDS OF STUDY

As in previous years, most of the awarding agencies offer their fellowships for study in any field. According to Volume III of Study Abroad, out of 35,459 fellowships announced, 22,008 (62.1%) are in this category. Since 1950, Unesco has been requesting awarding agencies to report to the Organization the "breakdown" of the fellowships already allocated each year; the results of this latter enquiry cannot be published at this stage, as they are not yet complete enough to give a true picture.

The data on fields of study, as reported in Study Abroad, Volume III, are summarized in the following table:

¹ The figures corresponding to South and East Asia have not increased in Volume III, owing to the fact that India and Thailand have considerably reduced their overseas fellowship programme during 1950-1.

If the fields are divided into four categories—Applied Arts and Applied Sciences, Pure Sciences and Research, Humanities, and Unspecified—the following figures are obtained: Applied Arts and Applied Sciences (Technology, Social Sciences, Medical Sciences, Education, Engineering, Fine Arts, Agriculture, and Others—Mass Media, Libraries and Museums), 11,674 fellowships or 32.9%; Pure Sciences and Research, 1,101 fellowships or 3.1%; Humanities (Languages and Literature, Classics, Philosophy, Religion), 676 fellowships or 1.9%; Unspecified, 22,008 fellowships or 62.1%.

Discounting the fact that all donating regions give priority to the study of Applied Arts and Applied Sciences, it may be pointed out that Europe (654 fellowships), International Organizations (201), and North America (195), are the main donors of awards to study Pure Sciences and Research. Europe (389), North America (146), and International Organizations (108), are also the principal donors of awards to study Humanities and related subjects.

COUNTRIES OF STUDY

The greater percentage of fellowships offered by awarding agencies in all the regions are for study in a country within the same region. There is no exception to this, according to Volume III of Study Abroad. Thus, out of the 11,153 fellowships (31.4% of the total reported in Volume III) for study in North America, 10,548 are given by North America; out of the 9,314 fellowships (26.3%) for study in Europe, 5,694 are given by Europe; out of 1,097 fellowships (3.1%) for study in the Near and Middle East, 1,042 are given by countries in that region. The figures for Latin America are; out of 1,012 fellowships (2.8%), 1,010 are given by Latin American countries. The complete data are shown in the following table:

As reported in Volume III of Study Abroad, 12,398 fellowships (35%) are offered for study in any country. The balance, 23,061 fellowships (65%), are tenable only in the following countries and dependencies:

North America: Canada, United States of America.

Latin America: Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Peru, Venezuela.

Europe: Austria, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Soviet Union, United Kingdom.

Near and Middle East: Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Israel, Lebanon, Pakistan, Syria, Turkey.

South and East Asia: Burma, Ceylon, India, Indonesia, Philippines.

Africa: Union of South Africa.

Oceania: Australia, New Zealand.

Dependencies: Congo, Indochina, Fiji, Trinidad, Uganda, Zanzibar, Hawaii, Puerto Rico.

In other words, 60 countries have been specifically named as countries of study in the various regions of the world, namely, 2 countries of study in North America, 15 in Latin America, 19 in Europe, 8 in the Near and Middle East, 5 in South and East Asia, 1 in Africa, 2 in Oceania, and 8 dependencies. It is to be noted that not all the countries mentioned received an important number of foreign fellows; some received 10 or 20 fellows and even lesser numbers. As regards the main countries of study in each region, a summary is given below:

Table III. MAIN COUNTRIES OF STUDY IN EACH REGION

Table III shows that in North America, 11,067 fellowships (31.2% of the total of fellowships reported in Volume III of Study Abroad) were offered for study in the United States, out of 11,153 fellowships (31.4%) of the total offered for study in the North American region (See Table II above).

Four Latin American countries were designated as country of study for 845 fellowships (2.4%) out of a regional total of 1,012 fellowships (2.8%) offered for study in Latin America.

Fourteen European countries were to receive 8,848 fellows (25.0%), out of 9,314 fellowships (26.3%), offered for study in Europe.

Two Middle Eastern countries were to receive 931 fellows (2.6%) out of 1,097 fellowships (3.1%) offered for study in the Middle East.

In South and East Asia, India was indicated as country of study for 111 fellows (0.3%), out of 174 fellowships (0.5%) offered for study in that region.

Although small countries in every region are increasingly receiving a greater number of fellows, the most sought after countries of study, up to the present, are still those in North America and Europe. Since 1950, Germany has taken an important position as country of study. In order of numerical importance, Volume III of Study Abroad gives these data:

BENEFICIARIES OF FELLOWSHIPS

Of 35,459 fellowships listed in Volume III of Study Abroad, 27,868 awards (78.6%) are available to specified countries or regions and only 7,591 (21.4%) are "unspecified". The "unspecified" are of three categories: those open to refugees, those open to two or more countries, and those open to all countries. Of these, only 2,219 fellowships (6.3%) are in the last category, that is, open to applicants of any nationality. This demonstrates a new trend in international fellowship programmes. More and more, awarding agencies have been reducing the number of awards open to nationals of any country and are becoming more specific as to the beneficiaries of these international fellowships.

According to Volume III, 108 nationalities have been specifically singled out as beneficiaries of the awards. (Included are three categories which for statistical convenience, have been called "Other French Dependencies", "Other British Dependencies", and "Portuguese Dependencies".) Some of the beneficiaries were offered only one fellowship, as in the case of Hashemite Jordan, French West Africa, Curaçao, and Malta; others were offered a greater number; Puerto Rico (181), Tanganyika (113), Gold Coast (149), Australia (108), Iran (147), Lebanon (152), Switzerland (178), Luxembourg (111), Iceland (183), Greece (194), Ecuador (87), Costa Rica (120), Mexico (95), Cuba (73). The main beneficiaries are those which receive a considerable number of awards from their own countries (Turkey, U.S.A., Sweden, Finland, Iraq, Egypt, and others), or from various sources including their own countries (Germany, United Kingdom, France, Japan, Austria, and others). In order of numerical importance, the 24 nationalities offered the highest number of fellowships for 1950-1, according to Volume III of Study Abroad were:

Germany, or German nationals, lead as beneficiaries of the fellowships offered. The main donor is North America (principally U.S.A.), followed by Europe (principally France). In second and third place are U.S.A. and Turkey, French Dependencies are fourth, receiving altogether 1,916 fellowships (5.4% of the total reported), while the United Kingdom and Sweden are fifth and sixth. Next follows "Refugees", with 1,158 fellowships (3.3%) offered. These fellowships, specifically available to persons without a country, are offered by France (600), the United States of America (206), Egypt (185), Spain (156), United Kingdom (10), and Belgium (1).

Regionally considered, the beneficiaries rank as follows:

14,679 awards (41.3%) are available to Europe.
 4,270 awards (12.1%) are available to Near and Middle East.
 2,893 awards (8.2%) are available to North America.
 2,816 awards (7.9%) are available to Dependencies and Territories.
 1,548 awards (4.4%) are available to Latin America.
 1,285 awards (3.6%) are available to South and East Asia.
 204 awards (0.6%) are available to Oceania.
 173 awards (0.5%) are available to Africa.
 7,591 awards (21.4%) are "Unspecified".

The relationships between donor and beneficiary regions are shown in greater detail in the table opposite.

As shown in this table, the main donors to North Americans are North America itself, Latin America, and Europe; the same three regions are also the main donors for Latin Americans. For Europeans, the principal sources are North America, Europe, and International Organizations. The Near and Middle East countries are the main donors for nationals of these countries. South and East Asia are offered fellowships by North America and South and East Asia. Africa and Oceania are offered fellowships principally by countries in Africa and Oceania; the Dependencies and Territories principally by the metropolitan country and local governments. Thus it can be seen that the main single source of fellowships for each region is the region itself, with the exception of Europe and South and East Asia, as shown by the following figures from Table VI above:

Out of 1,548 fellowships open to Latin America, 944 are offered by Latin America.

Out of 14,679 fellowships open to Europe, 6,361 are offered by Europe.

Out of 4,270 fellowships open to the Near and Middle East, 3,981 are offered by the Near and Middle East.

Out of 1,285 fellowships open to South and East Asia, 415 are offered by South and East Asia.

Out of 173 fellowships open to Africa, 118 are offered by Africa.

Out of 204 fellowships open to Oceania, 107 are offered by Oceania.

FELLOWSHIP DONORS

The awards announced in Volume III of Study Abroad are offered by 54 sovereign countries, 26 dependencies and territories, 7 organizations of the United Nations and Specialized Agencies, and 22 international non-governmental organizations.

The main donors of international fellowships, in 1950-1, according to Volume III, are the following:

United States of America	offers 12,845 awards (36.2%)
France	offers 4,086 awards (11.5%)
International Non-Governmental Organizations	offer 2,598 awards (7.3%)
Turkey	offers 1,922 awards (5.4%)
United Kingdom	offers 1,679 awards (4.7%)
Egypt	offers 1,369 awards (3.9%)
Sweden	offers 1,244 awards (3.5%)
United Nations and Specialized Agencies	offer 1,066 awards (3.0%)
Czechoslovakia	offers 1,021 awards (2.9%)

If the countries and organizations are classified in terms of their cultural similarities and international status, the donors of the international fellowships included in Volume III of Study Abroad would then be as shown in the table below:

Table VII. DONORS OF INTERNATIONAL FELLOWSHIPS AVAILABLE IN 1950-51, ACCORDING TO VOLUME III OF Study Abroad.

Since one of the aims of Study Abroad is to help those desiring to study abroad but not having the financial means to do so, it does not include information on movements of students without fellowships, although there is an impressive number of persons going abroad to study at their own expense.

Unesco has, however, been collecting data on foreign students taking courses in universities and other institutions of learning. In some instances, these have reached Unesco House from national organizations, as in the case of the Institute of International Education, which publishes an annual census on foreign students in the United States; the Fondation Universitaire for Belgium; the Bureau Universitaire de Statistiques for France. In other instances, Unesco has collected the data directly from the universities, as in the case of the Latin American countries and, beginning this year (1950-1), in the Arab countries. As a result of these enquiries, it is known, for example, that in 1949-50, the U.S.A. received 26,433 foreign students; Belgium 1,017 foreign students; Mexico 2,832; Argentina 1,909; Chile, 608; and Brazil, 327. If some of these figures are compared with those appearing in the statistical analysis of Volume II of Study Abroad, corresponding to the same academic year, 1949-50, it may be noted that the United States of America received 26,433 foreign students, of whom 4,981 held fellowships; Mexico 2,832 foreign students, of whom 11 held fellowships; Argentina 1,909, of whom 60 were fellows; and Belgium 1,017 foreign students, of whom 113 were fellows.

New useful information regarding the international movement of persons will be provided by an analysis of the breakdown of the fellowships actually awarded, and the publication of data on foreign students taking courses in various countries of the world. To be in a position to compile the last two items, Unesco must have the same co-operation which it has been receiving in regard to international fellowships and which has made of Study Abroad the most complete single publication of its kind in the world.

FELLOWSHIPS AND TRAINING PROGRAMMES OF THE UNITED NATIONS AND ITS SPECIALIZED AGENCIES

UNITED NATIONS AND ITS SPECIALIZED AGENCIES

During 1951 the fellowship programmes of the United Nations and its Specialized Agencies have considerably increased in volume and scope under the impetus of the Expanded Programme of Technical Assistance for Under-developed Territories. The funds provided under this programme have enabled the United Nations and the various Agencies to grant fellowships and scholarships as a means of implementing specific development projects planned in co-operation with the governments of Member States as well as economic development projects sponsored by governments themselves. Technical Assistance Fellowships are awarded not simply to provide further educational opportunities for individuals but to train personnel who, on their return home, will be better equipped to carry on the work initiated by teams of experts and demonstration teams sent by the United Nations and the Specialized Agencies. In those cases where the fellowships are not connected with other forms of technical assistance, the individuals will be better equipped to work in their own countries on projects directly related to economic development.

While participating in the Expanded Programme of Technical Assistance, certain United Nations Agencies, viz. United Nations, International Labour Office, Unesco and World Health Organization, have maintained independently their regular fellowship programmes. The contributions of these Agencies to the technical assistance programme will be examined below in conjunction with their regular fellowship programmes.

UNITED NATIONS

United Nations fellowships and scholarships to advance economic development, social development, or public administration are a part of the Technical Assistance Services available to governments eligible to receive them under various resolutions. These services include the provision of expert advice, fellowships, scholarships, scientific and industrial research, pilot and demonstration projects, training of local technicians in under-developed countries, seminars, dissemination of technical information, and in certain cases, equipment and supplies.

About half of the fellowships and scholarships awarded by the Technical Assistance Administration in 1951 are a continuation of the regular fellowship and scholarship programme of the United Nations. During the year United Nations has granted fellowships and scholarships both on an individual basis and in connexion with the work of experts and missions. In all cases under the Expanded Programme it has ascertained that awards recommended are related to economic development projects undertaken or planned in the countries concerned. It is believed that in 1952 about 50% of the awards will be connected with other forms of technical assistance.

The Technical Assistance Administration reports a total of 704 fellowships and scholarships for 1951 under the regular and expanded programmes of technical assistance combined. Under the Expanded Programme, approximately 300 awards have been recommended of which, by 30 November 1951, 178 had already been taken up. Of the total recommendations, 172 are in economic development, 38 in social welfare (mostly housing) and 72 in public administration.

Economic Development Fellowships and Scholarships

As of 1 November 1951, 233 fellowships and scholarships in economic development had been recommended or awarded in the following fields of study: combined resource development; community organization for economic development; cartography-photogrammetry; industrial and economic development; fuel and power development and utilization; mining and metallurgy; development of industries; transport and communications (general); inland transport; shipping; telecommunications; port and harbour facilities; co-operatives in economic development; statistical operations; agricultural and industrial credit for economic development; trade promotion; construction and town planning; economic studies; forestry; veterinary science. Beneficiary countries were: Afghanistan, 3; Brazil, 15; Burma, 2; Cambodia, 1; Chile, 2; Colombia, 1; Costa Rica, 1; Cuba, 1; Ecuador, 14; Egypt, 8; Finland, 13; Greece, 11; Guatemala, 1; Haiti, 4; India, 34; Iran, 18; Iraq, 6; Israel, 6; Laos, 1; Lebanon, 2; Libya, 6; Malaya, 1; Mexico, 3; Pakistan, 29; Philippines, 16; Southern Rhodesia, 7; Syria, 4; Tanganyika, 1; Thailand, 6; Turkey, 6; Venezuela, 7; Yugoslavia, 23.

Social Welfare Fellowships and Scholarships

The earliest United Nations programme of direct assistance to governments is the Advisory Social Welfare Service, first authorized in 1946, placed on a continuing basis in 1949, and enlarged by the addition of new types of services by a resolution adopted in December 1950. While the Advisory Social Welfare Service programme forms one element of the United Nations' technical assistance activities as a whole, it is not intended that the programme should lose its identity or its special characteristics.

Fellowships

During the period January to November 1951, 335 Social Welfare fellowships and scholarships were approved. Beneficiary countries were: Australia, 2; Austria, 16; Belgium, 7; Bolivia, 2; Brazil, 15; British West Indies, 2; Cambodia, 1; Ceylon, 3; Chile, 4; China, 6; Colombia, 2; Cuba, 2; Denmark, 5; Dominican Republic, 2; Ecuador, 7; Egypt, 5; Finland, 28; France, including Fezzan, 14; Federal Republic of Germany, 7; Greece, 16; Guatemala, 5; Haiti, 2; India, 23; Indonesia, 1; Iran, 6; Iraq, 1; Israel, 16; Italy, 13; Japan, 4; Lebanon, 5; Libya, 1; Mexico, 5; Netherlands, 8; Norway, 12; Northern Rhodesia, 2; Pakistan, 9; Philippines, 5; Southern Rhodesia, 1; Surinam, 2; Sweden, 8; Switzerland, 6; Syria, 8; Thailand, 13; Trieste, 1; Turkey, 5; United Kingdom, 2; Uruguay, 1; Venezuela, 1; Yugoslavia, 23.

Scholarships

For the first time, Social Welfare scholarships have been awarded in the fall of 1951. In August 1951, 10 scholarships were made available to candidates from: Greece, 2; Haiti, 1; India, 1; Italy, 1; Lebanon, 1; Libya, 1; Syria, 3. Host countries were Belgium, France, United Kingdom and U.S.A. The fields involved were services for the blind in the United Kingdom and France; child and family welfare in France; social welfare administration in hospitals in U.S.A.; psychiatric services in U.S.A.; social insurance in France; prison services in the United Kingdom; and town and country planning in France.

Public Administration Fellowships and Scholarships

The close relationship between improved techniques of government administration and economic development makes technical assistance in public administration an important part of the general programme of the United Nations for the under-developed areas, since the main objective is to increase the efficiency of government machinery throughout the world by means of the training of qualified civil servants in specific techniques of administration. As of 1 November 1951, 116 fellowships and scholarships in Public Administration have been recommended or awarded to the following countries: Afghanistan, 2; Belgium, 1; Brazil, 4; British West Indies, 1; Burma, 3; Cambodia, 1; Chile, 2; Colombia, 1; Cuba, 1; Dominican Republic, 2; Ecuador, 14; El Salvador, 2; Finland, 1; Greece, 2; Guatemala, 1; Haiti, 8; India, 3; Iran, 3; Iraq, 1; Israel, 12; Jamaica, 1; Libya, 22; Norway, 3; Pakistan, 7; Philippines, 12; Southern Rhodesia, 1; Sweden, 1; Uruguay, 2; and Venezuela, 2.

Internships

In 1951, the United Nations conducted 2 internship programmes for students, junior civil servants and officials of international organizations. Under these programmes, the internes work for an eight-week period in the United Nations secretariat at Geneva or New York and attend daily lectures and seminars on international problems. Candidates are selected from among young people who have demonstrated an interest in international affairs and who are likely to benefit from a short period of observation into the working of an international organization.

Normally a third internship programme is held in the autumn, in conjunction with the United Nations General Assembly, to enable civil servants to study the Assembly's working methods and procedures. It was not practicable to conduct this programme in 1951 when the Assembly met in Paris, but it is expected that it will be resumed in 1952.

FOOD AND AGRICULTURE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNITED NATIONS

Although, in earlier years, FAO administered a few UNRRA-financed fellowships, a fellowship programme was not included within the range of FAO's activities until the advent of the Expanded Programme of Technical Assistance. In 1951, a restricted fellowship programme was initiated to implement and complement the activities of FAO missions in the field. The fundamental condition for the award of fellowships is that they will further the objectives of a technical assistance project being actually carried out under FAO auspices. The basic assumption is that the fellowship holders, in return, should be able to follow up the work initiated by FAO experts and technical missions. Individual fellowships are not awarded by FAO and, prior to the selection of candidates, it is essential that an agreement exist between the organization and the government concerned and that a specific project has been initiated.

These fellowships have been allocated by the various technical divisions of FAO. Thus the Agriculture Division recommended the award of 98 fellowships; the Economics and Statistics Division, 21; the Fisheries Division, 13; the Forestry and Forest Products Division, 24; and the Nutrition Division, 20. The principal fields represented were dairying, animal diseases, timber utilization, fisheries, irrigation, nutrition, storage problems, silviculture, etc. At the beginning of September 1951, 156 fellowships were already covered by signed agreements and 35 more were being proposed in draft agreements. These activities involved 24 countries.

FAO's contribution to the Expanded Programme of Technical Assistance as of 1 September 1951 included the award of fellowships which were distributed as follows: Afghanistan, 5 in agriculture; Brazil, 3 in agriculture; Burma, 3 in forestry and forest products and 10 in agriculture; Ceylon, 1 in forestry and forest products; Costa Rica, 3 in economics and statistics; Ecuador, 1 in economics and statistics, 3 in agriculture and 4 in nutrition; Guatemala, 6 in agriculture and 2 in forestry and forest products; Haiti, 1 in fisheries and 4 in agriculture; Honduras, 3 in agriculture; India, 2 in forestry and forest products, 8 in agriculture and 2 in fisheries; Indonesia, 2 in economics and statistics; Iran, 17 in agriculture and 5 in forestry and forest products; Iraq, 16 fellowships not specified by subjects; Israel, 1 in agriculture and 2 in fisheries; Jamaica, 1 in economics and statistics; Mexico, 1 in nutrition; Pakistan, 22 in agriculture, 11 in economics and statistics, 5 in forestry and forest products and 2 in nutrition; Peru, 3 in nutrition; Portugal, 1 in nutrition; Syria, 9 in agriculture; Thailand, 4 in fisheries, 6 in forestry and forest products, 8 in agriculture, 2 in economics and statistics and 5 in nutrition; Turkey, 4 in fisheries. Of these 156 fellowships, it is expected that 80 will be awarded by the end of 1951.

INTERNATIONAL BANK FOR RECONSTRUCTION AND DEVELOPMENT

The International Bank continued in 1951 its training programme for junior professional and administrative staff, conducted for nationals of countries which are members of the Bank. Under this programme, promising young men and women who are pursuing, or plan to pursue, careers in banking, finance or government, are given an opportunity to acquaint themselves with the Bank's organization, functions and operation.

After a four-week period of general indoctrination, the internes are assigned to various departments of the Bank for 5 weeks' study and observation; thereafter, they work for 8 months in one of the major departments to acquire practical training and experience. Lectures and seminars are held weekly throughout the period of training.

Eight candidates from the following countries were selected to participate in the training programme in 1951: Ecuador, India, Iran, Italy, Lebanon, Norway, United Kingdom and U.S.A.

INTERNATIONAL CIVIL AVIATION ORGANIZATION

For the first time, ICAO has instituted a fellowship programme which has been established under the Expanded Programme of Technical Assistance. However, ICAO does not follow exactly the procedure set up for the other Specialized Agencies, since it may award fellowships upon request of any government, irrespective of whether a Technical Assistance agreement has been signed with the country in question. The fellowships are recommended for varying periods not exceeding 1 year and usually for 3 or 6 months. In many instances, the recipients of fellowships are given the opportunity of visiting more than one country in connexion with their specific study interests. At the beginning of October 1951, 14 countries were beneficiaries of ICAO fellowships. The number of fellowships, fields of activities and countries of observation are indicated below:

Burma: 2 in airport management (fire fighting) in United Kingdom.

Cuba: 1 in aeronautical meteorology in U.S.A.

Ethiopia: 5 in pilot training in United Kingdom.

Finland: 1 in aeronautical meteorology in Netherlands, Sweden and United Kingdom; 1 in air traffic services in Netherlands and United Kingdom; 1 in airport construction in France, Netherlands and Sweden; 3 (undetermined) in U.S.A. 3 nominations: 1 for air traffic services in Denmark, Netherlands and United Kingdom; 1 for air-frame construction and maintenance in Canada, United Kingdom and U.S.A.; 1 for airport design and construction in Canada, France, United Kingdom and U.S.A.

Greece: 1 in airport management and organization in France; 1 in airport construction and maintenance in United Kingdom and U.S.A.

Iceland: 1 in accident investigation in U.S.A.

Iran: 1 in air transport services in United Kingdom; 1 in aeronautical meteorology in United Kingdom; 1 in airport management in United Kingdom and U.S.A.; 1 in aeronautical meteorology in Egypt.

Israel: 1 in air traffic services in United Kingdom; 1 in telecommunication in United Kingdom; 1 in airport management in Netherlands and other countries; 1 in civil aviation administration in Canada and U.S.A.

Italy: 1 in airport design and construction in U.S.A.; 1 in airport management in Netherlands; 1 in administration and economics of air transport in France.

Lebanon: 1 in air traffic services in United Kingdom.

Mexico: 1 in legal aspects and economics of air transport in U.S.A.

Nicaragua: 1 in administration and regulation of civil aviation in Canada and U.S.A.;
1 in air transport services in Canada and U.S.A.; 1 in air flight inspection in U.S.A.;
1 in aircraft and engine inspection in U.S.A.
Peru: 1 in aeronautical meteorology in Canada and Puerto Rico; 1 in aeronautical meteorology in United Kingdom and U.S.A.
Philippines: 1 in aircraft management in U.S.A.

Interneships

The fifth ICAO interneship programme was conducted in 1951, beginning in September and continuing for 3 months. Under this programme, 6 civil servants are selected annually from ICAO Member States to study the work of ICAO at its Montreal headquarters. On completion of the 3 months' training and observation period, the internes are expected to return to work in the aviation services of their home countries and to help maintain liaison between their governments and ICAO.

INTERNATIONAL LABOUR OFFICE

In 1950 the International Labour Office established a regular fellowship programme in subjects within the fields of competence of the organization. Eighteen fellowships were awarded; the home countries, fields of study and host countries of the recipients were as follows:

Home Country	Subject	Host Country.
Ceylon	Labour inspection	United Kingdom
Chile	Labour inspection	United Kingdom
Costa Rica	Social security administration	Mexico
Egypt	Vocational training	France
Greece	Social security	France
India	Industrial relations	United Kingdom
Iran	Industrial relations	France
Liberia	Labour law and administration	United Kingdom
Philippines	Industrial safety	U.S.A.
Syria	Industrial relations	France

Non-Metropolitan Territories

Belgium (Belgian Congo)	Labour inspection	France
France (West Africa)	Vocational training	Belgium and France
United Kingdom (Union of Malaya)	Employment organization and industrial relations	United Kingdom

In view of the limited number of fellowships granted, and taking into consideration the requests coming from member countries, the Governing Body of the ILO decided to expand its fellowship programme and to increase to 28 the number of fellowships to be awarded in 1951. The 1951 fellowships were allocated to the following countries and territories: Afghanistan, Argentina, Australia, Austria, Brazil, Colombia, Cuba, El Salvador, Ethiopia, Finland, Guatemala, Haiti, Iceland, Indonesia, Iraq, Israel, Lebanon, Pakistan, Panama, Peru, Thailand, Turkey, Venezuela, Viet-Nam, Yugoslavia, and non-autonomous territories under the control of the Netherlands, New Zealand, and Portugal.

A number of interneships were also awarded for the study of the purpose, structure and organization of ILO. Internes are nominated by: (a) Governments; (b) Employers' Organizations; (c) Workers' Organizations; each organism being given the opportunity to select candidates from 4 countries.

In the 1951 programme, 12 interneships were awarded as follows:

Government nominees: Argentina, Indonesia, Iran, Italy.

Nominees of Employers' Organizations: India, Pakistan, Turkey, Uruguay.

Nominees of Workers' Organizations: Chile, Finland, France (non-metropolitan territories), United Kingdom (non-metropolitan territories).

Expanded Programme of Technical Assistance and ILO

During the year, the International Labour Organization has received from member governments various requests for technical assistance in fields closely related to economic development, but bearing primarily on social and human aspects rather than on specific problems of production and distribution of economic goods. The improvement of working conditions, the development of social security, a higher standard of life, are among the objectives of economic development but, in turn, they are also a means of securing it. Through its headquarters in Geneva and through technical missions, ILO has lent technical assistance in various fields, such as labour, professional and vocational education and training, industrial hygiene and security, statistics and social security and social legislation.

As of 30 September 1951, ILO had signed 39 agreements providing for 60 fellowships under the Expanded Programme of Technical Assistance. At that time, the fellowships had been allocated to the following countries: Burma, 5 in trade union activities and organization, for 6 months; 1 for study at the ILO, for 2 months; Costa Rica, 1 in industrial vocational training; 1 in agricultural vocational training; Ecuador, 6 in vocational training; Iran, 4 in co-operation, for 6 months; 1 in labour inspection, from 3 to 6 months; 1 in social security (industrial insurance), from 3 to 6 months; 1 in social security (prevention of accidents in industry); 1 in industrial relations and workers' councils; 1 in minimum wage-fixing machinery in various industries; 2 in labour statistics; 2 in social security; Israel, 1 in methods of training; 1 in maternity insurance; 3 in employment services; 1 in employment injuries insurance; 1 in training for member of Ministry of Labour in Geneva; 2 in modern industrial methods; 1 in vocational guidance; 2 in vocational training; 1 in factory inspection; 2 in industrial hygiene; Pakistan, 2 in employment services; 2 in vocational and technical training; Syria, 2 in employment services; 4 in technical education (in industry); 1 in technical education (in agriculture); 1 for apprentices; Thailand, 2 in vocational training; 2 in general labour questions; Viet-Nam, 2 in training instructors.

Further agreements concerning fellowships are contemplated.

UNITED NATIONS EDUCATIONAL, SCIENTIFIC AND CULTURAL ORGANIZATION

The main objective of the exchange of persons programme of Unesco is to promote a more intensive international movement of persons for educational, scientific, and cultural purposes. This can do much to equalize differences in knowledge and techniques now existing in the world and thus be an instrument of intellectual and technical co-operation among nations and a means towards achieving international understanding.

While Unesco fellowships are directed towards the general objectives for which the Organization has been set up, they are planned in such a way as to complement specific projects sponsored by the Organization, or to initiate programmes in accordance with the wishes of Member States.

Unesco regards a fellowship or scholarship as training for specific assignments which the recipient is to carry out in his own country upon his return. It is hoped that such training will have the maximum utility and influence both nationally and internationally.

According to the fields in which the fellowships are awarded, it is expected that recipients will be mature scholars and scientists, qualified administrators and competent educators. Moreover, it is desirable that they occupy positions in which they can advise their governments, plan specific schemes of educational, scientific and cultural information, and carry on the work initiated in their country under Unesco auspices or in line with Unesco's general objectives.

In addition to its regular programme of fellowships, Unesco has administered, in co-operation with the United Nations, fellowships for teaching about the United Nations, fellowships sponsored by governmental and non-governmental organizations, and a special programme of fellowships and scholarships under the Expanded Programme of Technical Assistance.

Unesco-financed Fellowships

Under the 1951 programme, fellowships were awarded in education, the natural sciences, the social sciences, mass communication, and cultural activities. In each discipline several branches were given emphasis, according to the needs of Member States. The following disciplines and fields of study were covered:

Education. Compulsory education, fundamental education and adult education.

Natural Sciences. (a) Development of international scientific co-operation; organization and function of international science liaison; use of scientific literature; scientific terminology; mathematical computing machines; (b) promotion of scientific research; research methods on problems of arid and semi-arid zones; nature protection and conservation; physics of high energy particles.

Social Sciences. Study of social tensions: Study of personality and culture; effects of industrial development in non-mechanized areas and social change resulting from this development; tensions arising from population problems.

Mass Communication. Press: The functioning of a daily newspaper, study period in an editorial office, general study of the functioning of news agencies, etc. Film: (a) Film production in general; (b) production and adaptation of audio-visual materials; (c) planning of production and adaptation of audio-visual aids; (d) techniques used in the combination of educational broadcasts and visual materials. Radio: (a) Educational broadcasting in general; (b) programme planning and management; (c) engineering.

Cultural Activities. Philosophy and humanistic studies: (a) Meeting on cultural and philosophical relations between East and West; (b) international co-operation and historical research. Arts and letters: Colour reproductions. Museums and historical monuments: Travelling exhibitions. Conservation, preservation and restoration of cultural objects: Methods and techniques employed in the conservation, preservation and restoration of cultural objects. Libraries and documentation services: (a) Public library development;

(b) bibliographic services; (c) organization and administration of national book exchange and international exchange services.

Member States were asked to select 3 fields of study in order of preference which, in their opinion, would best serve their educational needs. Accordingly, National Commissions and officials of Ministries of Education made surveys in order to determine which aspects of the Unesco programme were most suited to the educational, cultural and scientific development of their country.

As a result, 43 fellowships were allocated to the various departments of the Organization: 17 in education, 9 in cultural activities, 6 each in natural sciences and mass communication, and 5 in social sciences. The following summarizes the type of fellowship awarded to each country and the fields of emphasis, each country receiving one fellowship:

Education. Fundamental education: Afghanistan, British West Africa, Burma, El Salvador, France, Hashemite Jordan, Honduras, Iraq, Lebanon, Liberia, Syria, Turkey, New Zealand or its Trust Territories. Compulsory education: Iran, Israel, Pakistan. Adult education: Union of South Africa.

Cultural Activities. Librarianship: Indonesia, Switzerland, United Kingdom. Meeting on cultural and philosophical relations between East and West: Egypt, Germany. Bibliographical and documentation services: Yugoslavia. Folk Music: Canada. Research in archives: Costa Rica. Conservation of art objects: Panama.

Social Sciences. Intra-group and inter-group reactions and attitudes: Australia. Cultural assimilation of immigrants: New Zealand. Study of personality and culture: Japan. Study of tension: French Non-self-governing Territories and Trust Territories.

Natural Sciences. Nature protection and conservation: Cuba, Korea. Nuclear physics: Austria, Belgium. Scientific liaison: Greece. Arid zone research: Bolivia.

Mass Communication. Press: Ceylon, Korea, Sweden. Film: Guatemala, Indonesia. Radio: Yugoslavia.

Fellowships on Teaching about the United Nations

These fellowships have been established in order to promote the study of the United Nations and of its Specialized Agencies. Recipients are given the opportunity to study at first hand the purpose and general principles, as well as the structure and functioning of the United Nations and its Agencies. The ultimate goal is to extend and improve teaching about the United Nations in school curricula and to introduce such teaching in programmes related to adult education.

This scheme allows the recipients of fellowships to study for a period of 4 months the work of the United Nations and the Specialized Agencies. Unesco is the chief centre of study and visits are made to the headquarters of the United Nations and the more important of the Specialized Agencies, such as WHO and ILO. The programme includes visits to schools in the United States and Great Britain which have teaching about the United Nations in their curricula.

Candidates are selected from among school inspectors or supervisors, directors of elementary and/or secondary school systems, directors or organizers of systems of adult education, or persons responsible for school curricula.

During the year 1951, 7 such fellowships have been awarded by Unesco to the following countries: Austria, Cuba, Greece, Japan, Pakistan, Turkey and Yugoslavia.

Unesco Internships

In order to assure a clear understanding and knowledge of the structure and operation of Unesco among officials of Member States, the Organization provided 3 internships in 1951 for training and observation at its Paris headquarters. It was specified that candidates applying for the internships had to be officials of ministries of education or of institutions of recognized national or international standing, whose functions require familiarity with the fundamental aspects of Unesco's operations. Recipients spend 6 months in Paris working and observing in one department of Unesco.

In 1951, 3 such internships have been allocated, 1 each to India, Italy and the United States, the 3 recipients to do most of their work within the following divisions of Unesco: —the interne from India, in the Division of Fundamental Education; the interne from Italy, in the Division of Adult Education; the interne from the United States, in the Exchange of Persons Service.

Unesco-sponsored Fellowships

These fellowships are donated by accredited governmental or non-governmental agencies, but Unesco takes responsibility in planning and administering them. In the 1951 programme, governments, academic and professional associations, as well as fraternal orders and an international body, made available 22 fellowships. The donating organizations, the beneficiary countries and the fields of study, and the host countries are shown below:

American Federation of Soroptimist Clubs. One in social tensions awarded to a Swiss woman for study in U.S.A. Delta Kappa Gamma (California Chapter). One to women educators from Western Germany for study in U.S.A. French Government. Ten to nationals of India, Pakistan and Thailand for study in France in the following subjects: construction of electrical power stations and dams; telecommunications; highway construction; railway transports; ports and harbour works; exploitation of agricultural, mineral and forestry resources. Gilchrist Educational Trust (London, England). One to a Yugoslav for the study of mathematical computing machines in the United Kingdom. Greek Government. UNITED NATIONS INTERNATIONAL CHILDREN'S EMERGENCY FUND

Unicef fellowships are awarded in fields related to maternal and child welfare. They cover a great variety of subjects, ranging from social work to paediatrics and including child health, public health nursing, mental hygiene, sera and vaccine production, etc. Awards are made to nationals of countries receiving assistance from Unicef and are designed for the training of personnel needed to carry on child-care programmes to which Unicef has contributed supplies. Normally, recipients are doctors, paediatricians, public health officers, nurses and health technicians.

The 1950 Unicef programmes included the award of 52 fellowships to 13 countries and 7 non-self-governing territories under British administration. The beneficiary countries, numbers of fellowships awarded and countries of study are as follows: Ceylon, 6 in United Kingdom, 2 in U.S.A.; Indonesia, 1 in United Kingdom; Pakistan, 1 in Sweden, 2 in U.S.A.; Philippines, 1 in United Kingdom and Malaya, 1 in Scandinavia and Malaya, 1 in Sweden, 1 in New Zealand and Australia; Thailand, 1 in Sweden. British Territories: Hong Kong, 2 in United Kingdom, 2 in United Kingdom and Scandinavia, 1 in U.S.A.; Malaya, 11 in United Kingdom, 1 in United Kingdom and France; Sarawak, 1 in Singapore; Singapore, 4 in United Kingdom. Latin America: Brazil, 1 in U.S.A.; Chile, 1 in U.S.A.; Bolivia, 2 in U.S.A.; El Salvador, 3 in Mexico and Ecuador; Costa Rica, 1 in Guatemala; Nicaragua, 1 in Mexico. Europe: Greece, 1 in Italy; Yugoslavia, 3 in Copenhagen, Paris and London.

Under the 1951 programme, 91 fellowships had been awarded by November; the distribution of awards was as follows: Austria, 3 for study of juvenile epilepsy, in United Kingdom; Bulgaria, 6 in milk conservation, in Czechoslovakia; France, 6 in mental hygiene, in U.S.A., 3 in public health and home care, in United Kingdom, 40 in milk conservation, in United Kingdom; Greece, 4 in milk conservation, in United Kingdom; Italy, 1 in modern methods of rehabilitation, in United Kingdom and U.S.A., 18 in premature baby care, in various European countries; Poland, 3 in plasma and gamma globulin production, in France; Yugoslavia, 3 in sera and vaccine production, in Denmark, France and United Kingdom; 2 in plasma and gamma globulin production, in United Kingdom and Netherlands; 2 in bacteriology in milk conservation, in France and United Kingdom.

Moreover, 2 courses were conducted in collaboration with member governments and with other organizations: Handicapped Children Course in United Kingdom, attended by 49 doctors from Austria, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Italy and Yugoslavia. This course was sponsored jointly by Unicef, the World Health Organization and the United Nations Department of Social Affairs. Swiss Training Course in Paediatrics, held in Zürich; 12 Unicef fellowships were awarded to Austria, France, Germany, Greece and Italy.

Fellowships in public health and the medical sciences awarded and administered by WHO are granted only on the request of governments, mainly for the strengthening of their health services.

The year 1950 was marked by 2 notable events. First, much progress was made in decentralizing the responsibility for fellowships from Headquarters to the 6 regional offices: Africa, Americas, South-East Asia, Europe, Eastern Mediterranean and Western Pacific. The fellowships for study within the region are awarded and administered by the regional offices, which report regularly to Headquarters so that complete information may be available and uniformity of policy assured. The Headquarters of the World Health Organization has however retained the responsibility for the award of fellowships for study outside the region of origin of the fellow, and for making the necessary study arrangements. Second, there was a transition from the conception of fellowships as an independent programme to their conception as a complementary activity co-ordinated with health projects of governments and specific programmes assisted by the Organization.

In general, WHO fellowships have been awarded to candidates of post-graduate standing, but it has also been found useful to initiate a programme for the undergraduate training of technical personnel when training facilities are not available within the country itself. Under the latter scheme, 5 Albanians were given an opportunity to study in Czechoslovakia and 9 Ethiopian candidates were sent to Uganda, Egypt and Lebanon.

Individual and group training fellowships were also awarded in certain fields in which WHO had a particular interest in connexion with specific programmes. Thus, 12 individual and 33 group training (short-term) fellowships were awarded in nursing and 26 group training (short-term) fellowships in sanitary engineering.

The total number of WHO fellowships awarded during 1950 was 346, of which 107 were of the short-term type. Beneficiary countries and fields of study, not including short-term fellowships, were:

African Region

French Equatorial Africa, 2 in communicable diseases; Nigeria, 1 in communicable diseases.

Americas

Argentina, 2 in public health services; Brazil, 3 in public health services and 1 in communicable diseases; Canada, 1 in public health services; Chile, 2 in public health services, 1 in maternal and child health and 1 in other subjects; Costa Rica, 2 in public health services; Cuba, 1 in maternal and child health; Ecuador, 2 in communicable diseases; Guatemala, 1 in maternal and child health; Haiti, 1 in public health services; Jamaica, 1 in communicable diseases; Mexico, 2 in public health services, 2 in communicable diseases and 1 in other subjects; Paraguay, 2 in communicable diseases; Peru, 1 in communicable diseases; U.S.A., 4 in public health services, 2 in sanitation, 3 in communicable diseases, 2 in maternal and child health, 1 in basic and clinical medical sciences and 3 in other subjects.

Western Pacific

Australia, 2 in maternal and child health; China, 1 in other subjects; Hong Kong, 1 in public health services; New Zealand, 1 in nursing; Philippines, 1 in public health services, 1 in communicable diseases and 1 in nursing.

During the year 1950, short-term fellowships awarded for group training courses organized by, or in co-operation with, WHO were awarded to candidates from the following countries: Austria, 2; Belgium, 10; Denmark, 19; Finland, 9; France, 10; Greece, 2; Iceland, 2; Ireland, 6; Italy, 6; Luxembourg, 3; Netherlands, 2; Norway, 13; Portugal, 2; Sweden, 12; Switzerland, 5; United Kingdom, 6; and Yugoslavia, 3. Courses, symposia and seminars were held in environmental sanitation at The Hague, in infant metabolism in Stockholm and Leyden, in nurse training on psychology of hospitalization in London, in psychiatry of childhood in Paris, in public-health nursing at Noordwyck (Netherlands), in syphilis in Helsinki and Paris, and in anaesthesiology at Copenhagen.

Further expansion of group training was planned for 1951. Under group training are included all fellowships awarded to personnel in order to attend courses and seminars organized or assisted by WHO. Usually they are short-term fellowships, lasting less than 1 month, but fellowships are also granted for extensive courses lasting for as long as 1 year. Thus, in 1951, the one-year course in anaesthesiology was repeated in Copenhagen, Denmark, with 15 fellows of the World Health Organization. In addition, short-term courses were held in malariology at Aguas de Moura, Portugal, from 8 June to 28 August, with 6 participants holding WHO fellowships; in public health administration, in Belgium, Scotland and Sweden, from 2 September for 6 weeks, with 15 participants; in tuberculosis control, in Scandinavian countries, from 15 September to 15 December, with 4 participants holding WHO fellowships; in alcoholism in Denmark, from 22 October to 3 November, with 30 participants; and finally, a course for coders in vital statistics was held in Geneva from 21 to 27 June with 21 participants. Moreover, 82 fellows under WHO auspices participated in courses and seminars organized by government, private and academic institutions in England, France, Netherlands and Switzerland.

Unicef Fellowships, 1950

WHO also administers fellowships financed by Unicef. These cover maternity and child welfare, including paediatrics, public health, public health nursing and social work, and are awarded to doctors, paediatricians, public health officers, nurses and health technicians. Usually they are co-ordinated with child-care problems in various countries receiving Unicef supplies. As in 1949, most of these fellowships were awarded for joint projects in South-East Asia and the Western Pacific, but in 1950 one European country and three countries in the Western hemisphere also benefited: Americas: Brazil, 1; Chile, 1; El Salvador, 3. South-East Asia: Ceylon, 8; Indonesia, 3; Thailand, 4. Europe: Greece, 1. Middle East: Pakistan, 5. Western Pacific: Hong Kong, 6; Malaya, 6; Philippines, 4; Singapore, 3.

WHO Technical Assistance Fellowships, 1950 to 1951

In 1950, funds were made available for fellowships connected with the Expanded Programme Assistance for Economic Development and the first fellowships under this programme were awarded in 1951. As of 30 June 1951, 102 fellowships were planned under agreements signed, all being part of wider technical assistance projects. By 1 November, provisional information was to the effect that 62 fellowships had been awarded, of which 56 had been taken up. The largest number, so far, cover fellowships for group training in vital and health statistics: 1 course in Egypt and 1 course in Ceylon with 32 participants from Afghanistan, Burma, Ceylon, Ethiopia, Hashemite Jordan, India, Indonesia, Iran, Lebanon, Thailand, Turkey; and in nutrition: 12 fellowships for India, Portuguese India and Thailand.

HOW TO CONSULT PART II

Scholarships are listed under countries awarding them, not under countries whose nationals are eligible to apply for them, nor under countries in which they are tenable. See below instructions for using the index.

Symbols are used in this chapter as a means of abbreviation, as follows:

- = Field of Study
- = Where tenable
- = Conditions
- Δ = Value
- Ⅱ = Duration
- † = Number available
- = Apply to

Qualifications. It is taken for granted that recipients of awards will have a good knowledge of the language of the country in which they are going to study. If knowledge of the language is not required, it is so stated in the Conditions paragraph. Before making application for an award, prospective candidates should be satisfied that they possess all the qualifications required; they should also remember that, owing to keen competition, standards are generally high.

Applications. The address given at the end of each scholarship report is where persons should apply for further information. In general the time limit for receipt of applications is from 6 to 12 months before the beginning of the academic year. Persons wishing to study abroad should plan at least 1 year in advance.

The explanation of the small numerals ¹, ², ³ and ⁴ which appear in the Duration and Number available paragraphs is as follows:

- ¹ Award is renewable or extendable.
- ² Similar award will be offered for 1952-3.
- ³ Similar award will be offered for 1953-4.
- ⁴ Award will not be offered for 1952-3 and 1953-4.

Where there is no small numeral after the number available, it is not known whether awards will be offered in 1952-3 and 1953-4.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR USE OF THE INDEX ON PAGE 225

The index lists the awards which are available for each nationality and is further subdivided to show what subjects may be studied in which countries by the particular nationals concerned. An individual wishing to see for which scholarships he may be eligible should consult the index as follows:

1. Look for the name of his own country which is printed in large type across the page. (Awards open to ALL COUNTRIES and any of the other groups which include the individual or his country should also be consulted.)
2. The left-hand column below the name of country shows the subjects of study for which the scholarships are offered. The subjects are grouped under the following general headings:
 Unrestricted (i.e., all subjects approved by the awarding agency).
 Education.
 Fine arts, applied arts, architecture.
 Library science and museums.
 Mass media (cinema, press, radio).
 Philosophy and humanities, arts.
 Science (general).
 Medical sciences,
 Technology and engineering sciences,
 Agricultural sciences.
 Social sciences.
 } Candidates for awards in these fields should also consult Science (general).
3. The centre column shows the country in which the scholarship holder may study. "Unrestricted" means in any country.
4. The right-hand column gives numbers of scholarships which refer back to Part II, page 3 to 219, which lists scholarships numbered A 1 to A 1793.

PART III

INTERNATIONAL MOVEMENT OF TRAINEES

REPORT BY THE INTERNATIONAL LABOUR OFFICE

In preparing the 1951 questionnaire on the international movement of trainees, the ILO has tried this year not only to bring up to date the material gathered in the process of previous enquiries, but also to supplement the information with data on national and international associations and organizations interested in the movement, of which, owing to the lack of sufficient detail, no mention had yet been made. In addition to the questionnaire sent out to governments of States Members, therefore, the Office prepared a new questionnaire and distributed it on as wide a basis as possible to the organizations and associations in each country known to be facilitating the international movement of trainees; that is, organizations which either assist in receiving and/or placing foreign trainees in their own countries or which facilitate the sending abroad of their own nationals, whether their activities are general in scope or cover only a particular branch or occupational category. This wider distribution was largely made possible by the fact that, in replying to the 1950 questionnaire, the different governments of the States Members had supplied the Office with lists of the various national organizations in their country carrying on such work.

As before, the definition of "trainee" which has been adopted for the purpose of this enquiry is as follows: "A person who proceeds to a country other than his own for a limited period of time, on a remunerative or non-remunerative basis, in order to enlarge his vocational or technical knowledge. The term would thus include any person undertaking such training as an employee in a public or private undertaking, as an observer for short periods in various undertakings or technical or vocational training institutes or centres, or as an enrolled participant in a training institute or centre."

As has already been shown in the analysis of the 1950 enquiry,¹ this definition is much wider in scope than that envisaged by many of the inter-governmental trainee exchange agreements concluded between European countries. In view of the possible development of its work in connexion with the international movement of trainees, the Office this year specifically requested the governments to state whether the above definition is applicable in their respective countries and whether modifications should be made. Replies to this question show that a much more detailed comparative analysis is needed, an analysis which the Office will do its best to undertake before the preparation of the next questionnaire. For the present, however, the Office would refer the reader to the information given on the subject in Chapter VI of Study Abroad, Volume III.

Last year the Office also pointed out the basic differences as to specific aims and nature between the arrangements made by the national governments (national regulations or inter-governmental agreements) on the one hand and the schemes operated by national and international agencies on the other, whether the latter were organizations constituted solely for the exchange of trainees, for a particular trade or industry or for any other purpose either private or semi-private. In order to give an accurate picture of the principles applied and the organization established for the admission of foreign trainees into the countries offering them appropriate facilities, the Office has endeavoured this year to present the material collected in a simplified form.

As for last year, the information on trainee programmes is arranged according to the host country, and contains for each country the following information:

1. A condensed description of the provisions establishing the legal status of the foreign trainee in the host country, together with the names and addresses of authorities centralizing applications for labour permits and for assistance in obtaining employment.
2. Descriptions of actual training programmes in operation, with the names and addresses of the organizations, establishments, etc. sponsoring the programmes.
3. The names and addresses of other authorities or bodies interested in the international movement of trainees.

The wider scope of the ILO's enquiry, and also the new developments which have taken place during the past year both in government measures to facilitate the international movement of trainees and in the actual programmes for the reception and exchange of trainees have, of course, added considerably to the number of notes contained in this part. Information received recently from the Governments of Ceylon and Turkey has permitted the inclusion of both of these countries and has brought to 20 the number of entries on governmental regulations and activities in the field (as opposed to the 18 countries included last year). Similarly, the number of entries on actual trainee-exchange programmes has increased from 76 in 1951 to 121 in 1952; that is, an increase of more than 60 %.

Part of the new descriptive texts concerns programmes never before published which have come into operation only during the past year; others concern programmes already in operation last year but for which it had not been possible to write descriptions previously for lack of sufficient detail. It must be observed that the information is by no means complete. The Office has made every effort to obtain full information, but in an enquiry of this kind, in which not only governments but a large number of associations and companies operate, and in which new programmes are constantly coming into being, it is not possible to have all the information desired. The Office can only add that it will do its best to improve the scope of the report in future publications.

Except for a small number of the texts, all the entries contain detailed information on the exact nature of the different programmes (occupational field, object), on the general conditions for admission of candidates (vocational qualifications, age, etc.) and on the financial conditions governing the exchanges.

The information which has served as a basis for this part, and also the statistical data concerning the sending abroad and reception of trainees communicated to the Office by the governments concerned or by certain of the agencies and organizations shows that the tendency noted last year continues; that is, there is a general intensification of activity in the international movement of trainees. In an increasing number of countries both public authorities and private organizations are trying to promote the international movement of trainees and to assist in its operation, through the development of appropriate schemes or through the conclusion of agreements with authorities in other countries. Many programmes are increasing in international scope either because the responsible body is in process of extending their application to new countries or because the international federations or other international bodies concerned have taken action to centralize, co-ordinate and promote the work undertaken by their national affiliates.

In general the tendencies revealed by the 1951 enquiry show definite progress in international co-operation in the field of the international movement of trainees. Increased interest is also indicated by the excellent response which, in most cases, was given to the Office's questionnaire. The International Labour Office takes this opportunity of thanking the organizations and authorities concerned which, by their observations and by the information which they were good enough to submit, have made possible the preparation of this chapter of the Handbook.

PROGRAMMES FOR THE INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE OF TRAINEES

INTERNATIONAL

(B 1)

CATHOLIC INTERNATIONAL UNION FOR SOCIAL SERVICE, 111 rue de la Poste, Brussels.

Occupational field. Social service.

General conditions. Arrangements are made for employment of social service workers in institutions abroad to give them practical experience of social service systems in other countries. Financial conditions. Board and lodging paid by the firms receiving the British trainees; in addition, £2.10s. per week pocket money allowance during stay. Passage to Australia paid by British Iron and Steel Federation, and £5 to £7 for travelling expenses.

Applications. By candidate's own firm to: British Iron and Steel Federation, Steel House, Tothill Street, London S.W.1.

AUSTRIA

The Austrian Government has concluded a trainee exchange agreement with France, covering industry and commerce. Labour permits are granted within the limits of the annual quota fixed provided that all the terms of the agreement are observed. The programme is designed to give the participants an opportunity to improve their occupational knowledge. The exchanges are open to men and women, age under 30. Length of visit: 12 months; may be extended for a further 6 months. For normal services the trainee must receive the current local wage for the job; in other cases his remuneration must be proportionate to the value of his services.

In addition, the Austrian Government has concluded an agreement with Sweden, covering agriculture and horticulture. Under this arrangement, young Swedish men and women may work for a maximum of 12 months in Austria, in order to improve their occupational and linguistic knowledge, and vice versa. The trainees must receive the current local wage for the job.

Negotiations are in progress for the conclusion of agreements with Belgium, Germany, Italy, Netherlands, Sweden and United Kingdom.

The authorities which centralize applications for labour permits and employment are shown below:

Wiener Arbeiterkammer (Vienna Chamber of Labour), Wien.

BELGIUM

In general, foreign trainees may enter Belgium under the provisions of the Decree-Law of 31 March 1936 and of the Ministerial Order of 1 April 1936 concerning the employment of foreign manpower. According to these regulations student-employees are admitted provided the home country grants reciprocity and the trainee himself pledge to take only the employment specified in his application and to leave Belgium immediately on completion of the job. Length of visit: 12 months; may be extended a further 6 months.

The Belgian Government has concluded trainee exchange agreements with Finland, France, Italy, and Switzerland. In addition, the Settlement and Labour Convention concluded with Netherlands permits the employment in Belgium of Netherlands nationals, subject to compliance with Belgian laws and regulations and measures for the protection of the labour market. Belgium is also party to the multilateral agreement on the exchange of trainees concluded by the 5 signatory powers of the Treaty of Brussels (Belgium, France, Luxembourg, Netherlands, and United Kingdom).

The bilateral agreements cover the following occupational fields: France: agriculture, commerce and industry; Italy: industry and commerce; Netherlands: all occupational fields, with the exception of fishing in inland and territorial waters, coasting trade, pilotage and interior service in ports; Switzerland: not specified.

Labour permits are granted within the limits of the respective annual quotas, provided that all the terms of the agreements are observed. The exchange programmes are designed to give the participants an opportunity to improve their occupational knowledge and are open to both men and women, age under 30. Length of visit: 12 months; may be extended by a further 6 months.

For normal services the trainee must receive the current local wage for the job; in all other cases his remuneration must be proportionate to value of his services.

The authorities which centralize applications for labour permits and employment are shown below:

Applications for labour permits: For Finns: Harjoittelijainvaihtotoimisto Byran för Praktikantutbyte, Hallituskatu 17, VI kerros 606, Helsinki; for French: Ministère du travail et de la sécurité sociale, Paris; for Italians: Ministero del Lavoro et della Previdenza Sociale, Rome; for Swiss: Bundesamt für Industrie, Gewerbe und Arbeit, Berne.

CANADA

In general, foreign trainees may enter employment in Canada under the Canadian Immigration regulations which provide for the entry of foreigners wishing to observe and learn methods in use in Canada in a particular trade or industry.

In order to obtain a permit to enter the country, the foreign candidates must submit evidence that they will be received by the person or organization offering training or study facilities for the duration of their visit. The trainees must also comply with the ordinary passport regulations. In general, no remunerative employment is permitted for a trainee.

At the request of the United Nations, training is arranged in Canada for individuals from various countries. Administrative and other arrangements are made by the Department of Trade and Commerce. The expenses incurred under these arrangements are met by the United Nations.

In addition, the Canadian Government participates in the Colombo Plan, co-operating with the Bureau for Technical Co-operation in Colombo. The geographical scope of the Colombo Plan covers: the Associate States of Cambodia, Laos and Viet-Nam, Brunei, Burma, Ceylon, the Federation of Malaya, India, Indonesia, North Borneo, Pakistan, Sarawak, Singapore and Thailand.

The expenses of trainees entering the country under this plan are met by the Canadian Government. Such expenses would include the following:

1. Return travelling expenses from port of embarkation to Ottawa, or to any other final destination in Canada when recommended by the Canadian Government representative resident in the candidate's home country and approved by the inter-departmental group on Technical Assistance.
2. Lodging and subsistence allowances, ranging from $150 to $250 per month; the first payment to be made upon arrival.
3. An outfit allowance, up to a maximum of $200, as authorized by the Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce.
4. In certain cases, a local travelling expenses allowance (to include first-class transportation and reasonable charges for tips and taxis, etc.), up to a maximum of $300 over a six-months period, on the recommendation of the Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce.

In addition the trainees also receive medical and sickness insurance benefits, again on the authorization of the Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce.

The authorities which centralize applications for labour permits and employment are shown below:

In General

Direct applications will not be accepted from individuals desiring training in Canada, but must be made on their behalf by the Government concerned. Such applications, whether sponsored by the United Nations and its Specialized Agencies, by the Bureau for Technical Co-operation in Colombo, by other agencies or by governments, will be forwarded to the International Economic Development and Co-operation Division, Department of Trade and Commerce, through the Department of External Affairs of the Canadian Government.

Applications for labour permits: Immigration Branch of the Department of Citizenship and Immigration, Ottawa.

CEYLON

Arrangements to receive foreign trainees in Ceylon come under the relevant emigration and immigration provisions contained in the Citizenship Act of 1948 and also under existing agreements between the Government of Ceylon and the foreign candidate's home country. No general regulations as regards age, sex, qualifications, etc. have been specified; these will vary according to conditions stipulated in individual cases.

Applications for labour permits and employment should be sent, preferably by the prospective employer in Ceylon, to The Permanent Secretary, Ministry of External Affairs, Colombo.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA

The Czechoslovak Government has concluded a trainee exchange agreement with France, covering industry and commerce. Labour permits are granted within the limits of the annual quota fixed provided that all the terms of the agreement are observed. The exchange programme is designed to give the participants an opportunity to improve their occupational knowledge. The programme is open to both men and women, age under 30. Length of visit: 12 months; may be extended for a further 6 months.

For normal services the trainee must receive the current local wage for the job. In all other cases his remuneration shall be proportionate to value of his services.

The authority responsible for centralizing applications from French candidates for labour permits and employment is: Ministère du travail et de la sécurité sociale, Paris.

DENMARK

GENERAL EXCHANGES

The Danish Government has concluded trainee exchange agreements with France, Netherlands and Switzerland. These agreements cover the following fields: France: industry and commerce; Netherlands: industry, commerce, the hotel trades and all crafts; Switzerland: commerce and other unspecified fields. Labour permits are granted within the limits of the annual quotas fixed, provided that all the terms of the agreements are observed. The programme is designed to give the participants an opportunity to improve their occupational knowledge. The exchanges are open to men and women age under 30. For normal services the trainee must receive the current local wage for the job. In so far as French and Swiss trainees are concerned the agreement states that a trainee giving less than normal services shall be remunerated proportionately to the value of the services.

In addition, the Settlement and Labour Convention concluded between Denmark and Sweden (but open to the other Scandinavian countries) permits the employment in Denmark of trainees from Finland, Norway and Sweden. These trainees are exempt from labour permits.

AGRICULTURAL EXCHANGES

Under the auspices of the Danish Government agricultural trainee exchanges are carried on with Finland, Norway and Sweden. These exchanges cover agriculture, horticulture and rural economy and are designed to permit young agriculturists, students at horticultural schools and students of agronomy to improve their occupational knowledge. The exchanges are open to men and women, age over 18, who already have had certain practical experience. Length of visit: maximum 6 months, between 1 March and 1 November.

For normal services the trainee must receive the current local wage for the job. Trainees have all travel expenses from their home to the Danish frontier refunded. In the case of Finnish trainees, the travel expenses cover the whole journey from home to place of work.

The authorities which centralize applications for labour permits and employment are shown below:

FINLAND

GENERAL EXCHANGES

The Finnish Government has concluded trainee exchange agreements with Belgium, France and Netherlands (a similar agreement with Switzerland is being negotiated). The agreements cover all branches of industry, commerce and agriculture. Labour permits are granted within the limits of the annual quotas fixed, provided that all the terms of the agreements are observed. The programmes are designed to give the participants an opportunity to improve their occupational knowledge. The exchanges are open to men and women, age under 30. Length of visit: 12 months; may be extended for further 6 months. For normal services the trainee must receive the current local wage for the job; in all other cases his remuneration shall be proportionate to the value of the services. The remuneration must always be at least sufficient for maintenance purposes.

Negotiations are also being undertaken with a view to organizing trainee exchanges with Canada.

AGRICULTURAL EXCHANGES

The Finnish Government has taken steps to facilitate the operation, by the various national agricultural and horticultural organizations, of trainee exchange programmes with Denmark, Norway, Sweden, United Kingdom and U.S.A. In addition to agriculture, the exchange arrangement with Denmark, Norway and Sweden covers horticulture and rural economy and the agreement with United Kingdom covers horticulture and forestry.

The exchange programmes are designed to give young agriculturists, students of agronomy and students at horticultural schools an opportunity to improve their occupational knowledge and to learn the agricultural methods in use in Finland. The exchanges are open to men and women who already have a certain degree of practical experience in the field. Candidates from Denmark, Norway and Sweden must be between 18 and 30 years of age; there is no annual quota but each organization arranges its exchanges, so far as possible, on a head-for-head basis.

Length of visit: for Scandinavian countries and for U.S.A. 6 months; for British: 3 to 12 months. Scandinavian trainees must be paid according to the current local wage for the job. Travel expenses from the Finnish frontier to the place of work are covered by the employer.

FRANCE

The French Government has concluded trainee exchange agreements with the following countries: Austria, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Finland, Germany, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Saar, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey and United Kingdom. In addition, France is party to the multilateral agreement on trainee exchanges concluded by the 5 signatory powers of the Treaty of Brussels (Belgium, France, Luxembourg, Netherlands, United Kingdom).

The bilateral agreements cover, in all cases, the various branches of industry and commerce. As regards Finland, Ireland, Luxembourg, Switzerland and United Kingdom, the agreements also cover agriculture.

Except in the case of the agreement with the United Kingdom which has no quota limitation but which provides for head-for-head exchanges in agriculture and exchanges on the basis of reciprocity in the hotel industry, labour permits are granted within the respective annual quotas fixed, provided that all the terms of the agreement are observed.

The exchange programmes are designed to give participants an opportunity to improve their occupational knowledge and, where applicable, their linguistic knowledge. The exchanges are open to men and women, age under 30. Length of visit: 12 months; may be extended for a further 6 months.

For normal services the trainee must receive the current local wage for the job. In all other cases his remuneration shall be proportionate to the value of his services. Recent agreements state that in all cases the remuneration must be at least sufficient to cover maintenance expenses.

The Franco-British agreement stipulates that the trainees shall receive a subsistence allowance which in all cases will be less than the normal wage, except in the case of head-for-head exchanges when the employer agrees to pay the whole wage.

The authorities which centralize applications for labour permits and employment are shown below:

NORWAY

GENERAL EXCHANGES

The Norwegian Government has concluded a trainee exchange agreement with Netherlands covering all occupational fields. Labour permits are granted within the limits of the annual quota fixed, provided that all the terms of the agreement are observed. The exchange programme is designed to give the participants an opportunity to improve their occupational and linguistic knowledge. Exchanges are open to men and women, age under 30. Length of visit: 12 months; may be extended for a further 6 months. For normal services the trainee must receive the current local wage for the job; in other cases his remuneration must be proportionate to value of his services. The remuneration must always be at least sufficient for maintenance purposes.

A similar agreement is at present being negotiated with France.

In addition, as a result of a bilateral agreement between Norway and Sweden, the Norwegian Government co-operates with the "Norden" Association in organizing trainee exchanges between the two countries (see B 72 and B 82). Negotiations are in progress for concluding similar arrangements with Denmark and Finland.

AGRICULTURAL EXCHANGES

The Norwegian Government has also concluded reciprocal agreements with Denmark, Finland and Sweden, covering agriculture, horticulture and forestry.

The exchange programme is designed to assist agricultural and horticultural organizations and other appropriate agencies to effect exchanges among young agriculturists wishing to improve their occupational knowledge. Exchanges are open to men and women, age 18 to 30, who already have a certain degree of practical experience and at least 1 year's training in their field. Length of visit: 6 months beginning between 1 March and 1 May.

SWEDEN

GENERAL EXCHANGES

The Swedish Government has concluded trainee exchange agreements with France, Netherlands and Switzerland. These agreements cover the following occupational fields: France: industry, commerce and agriculture; Netherlands and Switzerland: all occupations. Labour permits are granted within the limits of the annual quotas fixed, provided that all the terms of the agreements are observed. The programmes are designed to give the participants an opportunity to improve their occupational knowledge. The exchanges are open to men and women, age under 30. Length of visit: 12 months; may be extended for a further 6 months. For normal services the trainee must receive the current local wage for the job; in other cases his remuneration must be proportionate to value of his services. The agreements with France and Netherlands also state that, in all cases, the trainee's remuneration must at least be sufficient to cover maintenance expenses.

A similar agreement will be concluded before the end of 1951 with Belgium. Agreements with Austria, Germany, Ireland and U.S.A. are also being drafted and negotiations are in progress for an agreement with United Kingdom.

In addition, the Settlement and Labour Convention concluded between Denmark and Sweden (but open to the other Scandinavian countries) permits the employment in Sweden in all occupations of trainees from Denmark, Finland and Norway. These trainees are exempt from labour permits.

Finally, under the terms of a bilateral agreement with Norway, the Swedish Government also co-operates in the trainee exchanges organized by the national sections of the Norden Associations of the 2 countries (see B 82 and B 72 respectively). Arrangements for similar exchanges with Denmark and Finland are at present being negotiated.

AGRICULTURAL EXCHANGES

The Swedish Government has concluded reciprocal agreements concerning the exchange of young agricultural workers with the following countries: Austria (British and U.S. Zones), Denmark, Finland, Federal Republic of Germany, Norway, United Kingdom and U.S.A. The agreements with United Kingdom and U.S.A. cover agriculture and horticulture; those with the 5 other countries also include forestry.

The Government's programme is designed to assist agricultural and horticultural organizations and other appropriate bodies to organize exchanges of young workers in agriculture, horticulture and forestry. The agreement with U.S.A. is also open to students of agronomy. The exchanges are open to men and women and are intended to give the participants an opportunity to improve their occupational knowledge and to observe agricultural methods in use in Sweden. The agreements with the other Scandinavian countries and with United Kingdom stipulate that the candidates must be between 18 and 30 and must already have a certain measure of vocational experience. Length of visit: Austria and Germany: 12 months; the other Scandinavian countries: 6 months; United Kingdom: 3 to 12 months.

According to the agreements with the other Scandinavian countries and with United Kingdom, the trainee must receive, for normal services, the current local wage for the job; in all other cases his remuneration must be proportionate to the value of his services. The remuneration must at all times be at least sufficient for maintenance purposes. In addition, for Scandinavian nationals, free travel is granted from home to place of work.

Austrian trainees must be paid the current local wage for the job. The journey from their home to the place of work is at their own expense but in certain cases the Austrian Chamber of Agriculture or the Austrian Ministry of Agriculture and Forests pays all or part of the trainee's travel expenses.

TURKEY

The Turkish Government has concluded a trainee exchange agreement with France covering industry and commerce. The exchange programme is designed to give the participants an opportunity to improve their occupational and linguistic knowledge.

The exchanges are open to men and women, age under 30. Length of visit: 12 months; may be extended for a further 6 months.

Authorization to effect the trainee exchanges is granted within the limits of the annual quota fixed provided that all the terms of the agreement are observed. If the trainee is asked to do work normally performed by a regular employee he must receive the current normal local wage. All other trainees must receive a wage sufficient for maintenance purposes from the moment of their arrival in the host country.

Educational and vocational exchanges are also being effected with several countries including India, Iraq, Switzerland, United Kingdom and U.S.A.

The authorities which centralize applications for labour permits and employment are shown below:

For French nationals residing in Paris: Ministère du travail et de la sécurité sociale, Paris.

For French nationals residing elsewhere in France: Direction départementale du travail et de la main-d'œuvre du lieu de résidence.

Others: Is ve Isçi Sulma Kurumu, Ankara.

UNITED KINGDOM

In general, foreign trainees may enter the United Kingdom under the Aliens Order of 1920 which provides that an alien wishing to be employed in the United Kingdom should not be permitted to land unless he produces a permit in writing for his engagement issued by the Minister of Labour. Accordingly, the admission of foreign trainees into employment in the United Kingdom is subject to the following rules and requirements laid down by the Minister of Labour: Permits are granted to British firms and employers who make application to the Ministry of Labour on behalf of foreign trainees. For this purpose "trainees" may be defined as young persons, of either sex, under 30 years of age who come to the United Kingdom for a limited period in order to improve their linguistic and occupational knowledge.

Except in exchanges entailing exact reciprocity, job for job, the trainee shall always be supernumerary to the normal establishment of the British undertaking concerned and shall not perform duties for which a British worker would otherwise be required. During his stay the trainee may not be gainfully employed, but may receive pocket money or, at most, a maintenance allowance less than would be payable in respect of full employment.

Permits for foreign trainees are normally granted for a maximum period of one year, but are renewable, exceptionally, for six months.

It is intended that foreign trainees shall not on the expiration of their period of training remain in the United Kingdom for the purpose of engaging in any further employment.

There is no quota limitation in the United Kingdom on the number of foreigners who may be admitted for training, subject to the regulations.

Exceptions to the above conditions are made in the following cases:

1. Nursing

The above rules do not apply to the nursing profession, the special circumstances of which enable the conditions concerning reciprocity, emoluments, and period of permit to be varied in suitable cases.

2. Hotel and Restaurant Industry

Trainee exchanges in this industry are on a head-for-head basis and are governed by agreements between the appropriate trade organizations. (See B 98 and B 99.)

3. Agriculture and Horticulture

Special agreements concluded by the Ministry of Agriculture, in consultation with the Ministry of Labour and National Service, cover trainees from Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Netherlands, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland. The scheme is operated by the United Kingdom Sponsoring Authority for the National Exchange of Young Agriculturists. (See B 110.)

The Government of the United Kingdom has concluded a trainee exchange agreement with France and is party to the multilateral agreement on the exchange of trainees concluded by the 5 signatory powers of the Treaty of Brussels (Belgium, France, Luxembourg, Netherlands and United Kingdom). These agreements embody the principles mentioned above.

The authorities which centralize applications for labour permits and employment are shown below:

General Exchange Programmes

Applications for labour permits: permits must be applied for by the prospective employer to the Ministry of Labour and National Service, St. James's Square, London S.W.1.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

Programme under the Inter-departmental Committee of Scientific and Cultural Co-operation financed from U.S. Information and Educational Exchange Programme funds. (Public Law 402, 80th Congress.)

The Committee utilizes the services of the departments, agencies, and independent establishments of the U.S. Government for carrying on a programme of scientific and technical co-operation with foreign governments, details U.S. experts to work with foreign governments and trains foreign nationals in U.S.A. As part of this programme the Federal Department of Labour provides qualified personnel with on-the-job training in industrial occupations in U.S.A. for nationals of countries where such training facilities are not available because of lack of modern equipment and techniques.

Programme for co-operation with the other American Republics. (Public Law 355, 76th Congress.)

Under the provisions of this law the U.S. Government offers training in, or under the auspices of, 25 agencies of the Federal Government to nationals of American Republics other than U.S.A. The occupational field is unrestricted and varies according to the type of training requested. Length of visit: maximum 12 months.

Programme administered by the Institute of Inter-American Affairs under the jurisdiction of the Secretary of State. (Public Law 369, 80th Congress, Public Law 283, 81st Congress.)

By means of inter-governmental agreements the Institute co-operates with agencies of other American Governments in the improvement of public health, education and food production. The Institute of Inter-American Affairs trains personnel in the above fields on the understanding that the persons they train will return to their own countries to carry on their work there. Under the programme there is provision for, among other things, teacher training, agricultural education, vocational education, education administration and related fields.

Programme for Philippines Rehabilitation conducted by the Department of State. (Public Law 370, 79th Congress, Public Law 882, 80th Congress.)

Activities are carried on under the auspices of the Department of State in co-operation with other Federal agencies through the Inter-Departmental Committee of Scientific and Cultural Education. (See USIE programme.) These co-operative projects include training of Philippine nationals in U.S.A. in the following fields:

- (a) Fishery development, including training in modern methods of deep-sea fishing and in related techniques necessary to the development and improvement of the fishing industry in the Philippines. Responsible authority: Department of Interior.
- (b) Public health, including training to rehabilitate and develop health services and facilities in the Philippine Islands, with particular emphasis on innovations and new techniques in public health. Responsible authority: Federal Security Agency.
- (c) Transportation—Civil Aviation, including training in air traffic control, aircraft communications, maintenance of air navigation facilities and such related functions as are necessary for the efficient maintenance and operation of aids to air navigation and related services essential to the orderly and safe operation of air traffic. Responsible authority: Department of Commerce.
- (d) Transportation—Inter-island commerce, including training to assist in the development and improvement of inter-island transportation, the shipping industry and allied industries, including foreign trade. Responsible authority: Maritime Commission, Merchant Marine Cadet Corps.
- (e) Weather Investigations, including training in meteorological observations, analyses, forecasting and related functions required for the maintenance of a general weather service, with the object of assisting agricultural, commercial and industrial enterprises. Responsible authority: Department of Commerce, Weather Bureau.

This programme is open to Philippine nationals only.

Programme for Merchant Marine Training facilitated by the Department of State. (Public Law 701, 79th Congress.)

U.S. Government programme to provide foreign nationals with training in all branches of merchant marine transportation. Training open to selected nationals of the other American republics (not more than 12 trainees at a time); gives the trainees the background of shipping industry, allied activities and allied trades. Responsible authority: Maritime Commission, Merchant Marine Cadet Corps.

Programme for Scientific and Technical Assistance directed by the Economic Co-operation Administration. (Public Law 472, 80th Congress, as amended.)

Provides for scientific and technical interchange projects in the following fields:

- (a) Agricultural productivity. Sponsors the training of Europeans on American farms, in experimental stations, laboratories and universities. Subjects studied include, among others, new techniques in plant and animal disease control, farm mechanization, irrigation and reclamation methods and the use of new plant varieties.

- (b) Industrial productivity. Arranges for European plant owners, managers, engineers and workers to visit U.S. factories and laboratories to study production techniques, plant and machinery, lay-outs and use of labour.
- (c) Manpower utilization. Training in conducting projects for employment services, vocational and apprenticeship training, work organization and union administration.
- (d) Marketing. Training in operating projects for the study of techniques of market research and analysis, packaging, product design and the effective use of discussion channels.
- (e) Tourism. Arranges to bring European personnel to U.S.A. to study application of advanced methods in the operation of travel, hotel and tourist bureau facilities. American technicians are made available to advise on the expansion and improvement of existing facilities, selection of hotel sites, designs, accounting systems and other management services.
- (f) Transportation and Communications. (i) Arrangement to provide technical advice to Turkish Government on a modernization programme for its railway system, including management methods, accounting and roundhouse operations; (ii) arrangement for civil aeronautics administration personnel to supervise and train Greek nationals in air-traffic control, safety methods and other airport operations.

Programme conducted by the U.S. Department of State in accordance with Public Law 227, 81st Congress.

This exchange programme provides for German students, trainees and leaders to be brought to U.S.A. to study significant aspects of American society. COURIER to keep informed to inform others

The UNESCO COURIER is an international monthly periodical devoted to activities and developments throughout the world in the sciences, the arts, and education. Written in an easy readable style, the COURIER offers a monthly selection of feature articles, news, and pictures which you will find thought-provoking and informative.

By subscribing to the UNESCO COURIER for yourself and those around you, you are materially assisting in Unesco's main task of spreading international understanding. If you pass your copy on so that it is read and re-read, if you use its contents in study groups and round-table discussions, you are advancing Unesco's work a hundred-fold.

Specimen copy free upon request

You may subscribe to the UNESCO COURIER in the currency of your own country. Please send subscriptions to the National Distributors listed on back cover. If there is no Distributor in your country, send subscriptions direct to UNESCO, 19 avenue Kléber, Paris-16^e.
